Sounds Travel Farthest in Darkness.
Sounds can generally be heard much farther by night than by day; sometimes ten or even twenty times as far. One reason is that the air at night contains, as a rule, few eddies and other local disturbances, such as break up the sound waves by day. More over, on calm, clear nights the vertical distribution of temperature near the earth is often the reverse of that occurring by day, and has the effect of bending the sound waves downward instead of upward.

AS TEDDY JR SEES IT

Editor's Note: The recent triumph of progressive Republican candidates in various states and upset of other Old Guard leaders brought forth the following comment from Theodore Roosevelt Jr., Assistant Secretary of the Navy, when approached by a Washington representative of this newspaper:

I AM delighted with Gifford Pinchot's victory in Pennsylvania. It indicates a general trend toward progressive ideals. In this connection, however, it is necessary to bear in mind that since 1912 lines are blurred considerably on progressive policies. For example, a very large part of the 1912 progressive platform has already become the law of the land. In this, woman suffrage is a specific incident.

The World's Greatest Baking Powder

A Complete Angler.

"Clarence, come in to dinner!" Mrs. Jones stood at the door of her cottage, looking over toward a small boy who was fishing with a bent pin and herring bone on the brim of a puddle.

"Clarence—dinner!" Still Clarence fished. "Clarence!" No answer.

"If you don't come in to dinner at once, my son," threatened Mrs. Jones, "I won't give you any at all!" Only a sudden tension of the small boy's frame as he gazed eagerly into the depths of the murky puddle.

Mrs. Jones' patience was at an end. Silently she crept up behind the delinquent and then, suddenly seizing him by the shoulders, shook him violently to and fro.

"You rascal!" she cried. "Didn't you hear me call?"

"No, ma," said the youngster stoutly. "I didn't hear you the first three times and the last time I had a bite!" —Exchange.

Dweller in a Cave.

Cave bears were great big beasts, weighing half a ton or more. They lived in Europe during paleolithic times, and were contemporaneous with our ancestors. They get their name from the fact that their bones are usually found in caves. All bears, as a matter of fact, prefer a den in some rocky hole to live and die in.

Cave bears are all extinct now, but their near relatives, the Siberian brown bear and the Alaskan Kodiak bear, are alive. Scientists were at a loss as to where to place these huge beasts until they discovered Pleistocene affinities for them. Although a cave bear stood as big as a small cow, he was relatively inoffensive. He preferred rooting in the ground or robbing an occasional bee tree to preying on animals and men.

New Musical Instruments.

It has been said by musicians that the violin family is composed of two pygmies—the violin and the viola—and two giants—the violoncello and the double bass. It is reasonable to suppose that the great gap between these two extremes could be advantageously diminished. It is not surprising, then, that two well-known French musicians, father and son, have, after years of study and experimentation, created a number of intermediary instruments which have entirely changed the nature of the violin family.—Popular Mechanics Magazine.

Preserving Homes of Famous Men.

The other day the chamber decided that the hermit's cottage at Serignan in Provence where the great entomologist, Henri Fabre, lived and died should become national property. But the Provencaux are not yet content. They now demand a like honor for their great Mistral, whose man is at Maillane. Mistral's widow still resides there as does the poet's pet spunk, which wears a collar with the proud inscription "I am Jougou, the dog of the poet Mistral."—London Times.
